What will happen at lunchtimes?

Lunchtime supervisors are encouraged to give out 'Lunchtime Credit Cards' for children who display good behaviour. Lunchtime supervisors will follow the playtime disciplinary procedures if inappropriate behaviour is displayed. If a lunchtime supervisor thinks the behaviour is persistent or serious enough the child needs to be sent to the Lunchtime Manager. She will follow the same warning and consequence card system as exists in class. Persistent inappropriate behaviour may result in exclusion at lunchtimes. Inappropriate behaviour will be reported via the lunchtime manager to the class teacher or a senior member of staff. The lunchtime manager will meet with the Mrs Darby once a month to discuss lunchtime issues including the management of behaviour. Lunchtime staff will also log any negative behaviour on the Negative Behaviour sheet which will be sent to the School Office, and thereafter recorded on Integris.

Welcome to our new behaviour policy.

This booklet should provide you with a simple overview of how our policy will be implemented in school. The full version is available from the school office.

Our policy now incorporates a "Good to be Green" motto. Green behaviours are those behaviours the adults in school expect to see e.g. listening to what others say, following instructions at the first time of asking, sharing and being polite to others. We are using an upside down traffic light system as an illustration for our policy. Green behaviours are at the top descending to amber and then red. You will see this in the booklet.

We hope our new policy will be very positive and puts in place a way of supporting children to change their behaviour when needed and understand when something is wrong. Our policy also aims to involve parents in working alongside the school and their child to ensure their behaviour is "Green" so they are getting the best from their education.

The flow chart in this booklet should illustrate the procedures that we will follow if a child is misbehaving.

This policy will begin from February 2014.. If you have any queries please contact your child's class teacher or Mrs Bham or Miss Kitson who will be glad to help you.
