Dear Parents and Carers,

I hope families are doing well though this new lockdown. Feedback from teachers on how children are engaging with online learning has been on the whole very positive, with around 90% of children consistently accessing this learning. To improve learning further we would like to reaffirm:

- All children must be dressed and ready to learn
- That parents must allow their children to work independently
- That all the work completed must be sent in to be marked

To equip parents with the knowledge to mirror the teaching methods used in school, we will be sharing video clips and guides on how to teach maths topics – these guides will be posted prior to the teaching taking place in school.

After February ½ term we will be providing online reading and phonics workshops for parents – further information will follow before the end of this ½ term.

Readathon

Parents and carers have mentioned that one of the benefits of lockdown has been that their children are reading more than before; therefore, to promote this further, we have decided to hold a Warwick Road Readathon – this will be launched on February 8th – teachers will be in touch later this week.

Parents do not need to worry about purchasing books as we have secured many free online books for children.
